

BELMAP assembles all publicly available national data on antimicrobial usage and resistance in humans, livestock, food, and the environment. Scrolling through the various sections allows you to explore Belgian data from all sectors, with links to the various monitoring programs and their detailed reporting. We provide expert discussion of the results. Please visit also the recommendations chapter, which outlines a pathway for improving our surveillance systems for antibiotic resistance and consumption.

Access BELMAP here: https://belmap.shinyapps.io/BELMAP2024_App/